Wing successfully fights-the-base

By Master Sgt.
Adam Johnston
18th Wing Public Affairs

Although initial inspection results on last week's exercise are still being tallied, evaluators and top officials here are already hailing the unusual "fight-the-base" scenario as a success.

Last week, nearly 7,000 Airmen at Kadena finished a week-long, two-part training session that placed the base under attack as part of a fictional "war zone."

During Phase I of the exercise - Aug. 17-19 - the Air Force's largest combat air wing entered into a mobilization and generation phase unlike previous quarterly exercises.

The difference?

Instead of practicing and sending combat air assets and people on a fake deployment to a deployed location, the majority of the 18th Wing stayed in place to "fight" a conflict in Phase II - Aug. 22-24 - within the con-

Maintainers from the 18th Aircraft Maintenance Squadron don their masks and gloves after an Alarm Blue attack call during last week's exercise. Although official results of the training scenario won't be released until Wednesday, evaluators are already calling the base-wide exercise a success, with a spotlight on maintenance efforts to maintain robust combat sortie generation.

Kadena, 11 Airmen rackup AF installation excellence awards

By Staff Sgt. Jason Lake
18th Wing Public Affairs

Air Force officials recently recognized 19 units, programs and individuals at Kadena that epitomize excellence.

Four units, four unit programs and 11 individuals were named 2004 Commander-in-Chief Installation Excellence Special Recognition award winners.

The four units recognized were: 18th Civil Engineer Squadron, 718th CES, 18th Services Squadron and the 18th CES explosive ordnance disposal flight.

18th CES

Some of the highlights of the 18th CES achievements include:

- Supported 8,100 housing units across six Defense Department installations and managed nearly $35 million in family housing operations and management funds. The 18th CES manages all military housing on Okinawa.

- Coordinated a $442,000 project with other operational units to repair airfield pavement while minimizing risk to 57,000 aircraft sorties.

- Cleared 154 tons of debris after four major typhoon strikes that caused more than $1 million in damage.

718th CES

Some of the highlights of the 718th CES achievements include:

- Executed Pacific Air Forces' largest construction program that included 140 projects worth $429 million.

- Demolished 135 substandard houses last year to make way for a $49 million base school in the Stillwell Park housing area.

- Organized and implemented plans to construct a $6 million visitor center and six new gates to improve Kadena's force protection.

18th CES/EOD flight

Some of the highlights of the 18th CES/EOD flight achievements include:

- Twelve of the 15 Airmen assigned to the unit deployed 1,260 man-days in support of Operations Enduring Freedom and Iraqi Freedom as well as other operations and exercises.

- Participated in the largest weapons cache disposal operation in Iraq at Al-Fathah airfield where 515,000 pounds of ordnance were destroyed.

- Disarmed four rockets in downtown Naha after a Japan Self Defense Force collector was killed.

18th SVS

Some of the highlights of the 18th SVS achievements include:

- Saved $395,000 for customers through initial Domo Day

18th Wing Safety offers tips for school season

By Ron Kirby
18th Wing Safety

Summer vacation is over and school is back in session. Keeping this in mind, here are some tips to help keep our children safe as they make their way to and from school.

Parents should ensure their children know how to cross the street safely by using the designated crosswalks and using extra caution when walking around buses. Vehicle drivers are required to stop when buses are loading and unloading children, however, our kids need to be extra careful anyway.

School bus safety

Being on time to the bus stop is an important aspect that can have safety consequences, as children may rush to catch the bus and not pay attention to their surroundings.

Another important aspect is clothing. Children need to be dressed appropriately for the weather. Make sure all drawstrings, ties, straps, etc., on all clothing, backpacks and other items are tied. Doing so will lessen the likelihood of them getting caught on bus doors, railings or aisles.

While waiting for the bus, kids should stay away from the street. When the bus arrives, children must wait until the vehicle stops completely and the driver gives the signal to board.

When getting on and off the bus, our kids should always use the handrail to keep from falling. Waiting for the bus to stop completely before standing up and exiting is also a good idea.

Children need to always check both ways before crossing any street, particularly if they are new to Japan and aren't used to the traffic flow. Remember to also avoid running back to the bus, even if they forget something.

Tips for walking to school

Once again, children should be reminded to look right, left and right again before crossing the street. This is the surest way to cross safely.

Children must cross at designated crosswalks or intersections, but never between cars. Doing so gives drivers little time to stop if they don't see the child fast enough.

Also watch for cars backing out of driveways or parking lots.

Vehicle drivers

It is critical for drivers to use extra caution around school zones. Children can be unpredictable and drivers must be ready to react. When dropping kids off at school, please do so in the designated pick-up and drop-off areas. And lastly, don't stop or park within 15 feet (5 meters) of a crosswalk or intersection. Following these tips will make it less likely that our children will be involved in a traffic-related accident.

you have the concern the opportunity to correct the situation first. When that fails, send us an e-mail. Include your name and telephone number so someone can get back to you, and a brief summary of your concern.

The 18th Wing is very interested in ideas that can make Kadena an even better place to live, work and play. If you have a concern that you have been unable to resolve through normal chains of command, then we'll look into it. Although not required, it's better to give commanders, first sergeants or the agencies with which

The eyes of an Eagle

I often see locals taking photographs of the airfield/flightline area using sophisticated telephotographic equipment. Some are parked alongside the road and many others are atop that yellow oval-shaped building. Is this authorized? It would seem to me to be a threat to security. During the Eagle Eyes campaign, we were told that often times terror organizations will spend time watching the potential target's day-in/day-out operations, learning the patterns, before executing an attack....and that we should be aware of lurking persons.

I am sure that this isn't the case here, but it's better to be safe than sorry.

Thank you for your vigilance! It's great to know we have Eagle Eyes like yours in our community that are looking out for suspicious activity. We are aware of the location you are referring to and the photographers there. While it is legal for people to take photographs of the installation as you described, we remain vigilant for any activity that could constitute surveillance for hostile purposes. You are correct that such activity should be reported through the Eagle Eyes Program, which is ongoing, not a one time or seasonal campaign. If you or anyone else observes suspicious activities, please don't hesitate to report it immediately to our Security Forces Control Center at 634-2475 or Office of Special Investigations at 632-8995. When reporting these incidents our Eagle Eyes should include the following:

- Size: (how many personnel)
- Activity: (what the member is doing)
- Location: (area where it was observed)
- Uniform: (what type of clothing)
- Time: (the time and date it was observed)
- Equipment: (description of any type of equipment)

SHOGUN WARRIOR OF THE WEEK

Staff Sgt. Mark Florendo

Detachment 3, Air Force Institute for Operational Health, NCOIC industrial hygiene branch
Hometown: Jacksonville, Fla.

Reason for nomination: Sergeant Florendo demonstrated outstanding expertise and professionalism while certifying Pacific Command's only weapons of mass destruction laboratory. His efforts guaranteed adequate force protection measures for more than 20,000 people.

Time at Kadena: 6 years, 3 months

Editor's note: Shogun Warriors are selected by unit leaders for their outstanding value to their unit and dedication to the Kadena mission. To nominate someone, send the name of your nominee to your unit commander or senior enlisted leaders.

To serve and protect: a homecooked meal

The dorm dinner was part of ongoing Kadena Chapel ministries serving the men and women of Team Kadena.

SUPER TYPHOON APPROACHING: Typhoon Nabi is expected to pass close to Okinawa Monday night as a super typhoon—Okinawa's first to make landfall since Super Typhoon Saomai in 2000. Winds of 125 mph may occur. Nabi began as a tropical depression Monday east of Saipan, and hit that tiny island yesterday as a Typhoon with 90 mph winds. Nabi is gaining in strength, and is expected to reach powerful "super-typhoon" status Friday. If the storm maintains its current trek and intensity builds, Okinawa residents can expect winds of nearly 100 mph gusting to nearly 125 mph as it passes the northern edge of the island late Monday. Everyone in the Okinawa military community should ensure stocks of food, water and other supplies are ready, and make immediate preparations for Tropical Cyclone Conditions of Readiness-Emergency. People living in low lying areas should make arrangements to stay with a friend. Listen to American Forces Network Radio and TV for updates. The largest storm experienced by Team Kadena last year was Typhoon Songda, with more than 80 mph winds from Sept. 3-6.

CAREER OPPORTUNITY: The Air Force is looking for strategic debriefers/linguists, Air Force Specialty Code 8D000. A briefing from the functional manager takes place Sept. 12 at 9 a.m. in the McDaniel Center for Professional Development, Bldg. 3445. Officers and enlisted members are welcome to attend.

SUICIDE INTERVENTION: The Applied Suicide Interventions Skills training is scheduled Sept. 8 and 9, from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the McDaniel Center for Professional Development, Bldg. 3445. ASIST training is open to everyone but only 30 seats are available. Contact Chaplain (Capt.) Kleet Barclay at 630-9188/634-1288 to sign up.

POST OFFICE CLOSURE: The Kadena post office's customer service windows will be closed Sept. 3-5. Normal services will resume Sept. 6. For more information, call 634-4240.

CIVILIAN HIRES: Effective Nov. 1, all vacancy announcements for Kadena will be advertised by the Air Force Personnel Center at the following website: <http://www.afpc.randolph.af.mil>.

Both internal and external applicants will apply for positions through the self-nomination process. Applications will no longer be accepted at the Kadena Civilian Personnel Office. For more information, call the Civilian Personnel Flight at 634-1358.

POW/MIA RECOGNITION: A ceremony for National POW/MIA Recognition Day will be held at the base flagpole at 6:30 a.m. Sept. 16 followed by a breakfast at 8 a.m. at the Rocker NCO Club. The ceremonies are held to remember the sacrifices made by prisoners of wars and to recognize those still missing in action. For more information call Master Sgt. Gregory Loflin at 634-5894.

Okinawa Perspective

The following is a synopsis of articles that appeared recently in Japanese newspapers.

□ Tetsuya Hokama, a 31-year-old contractor working at Kadena, was electrocuted at 10:30 a.m. Monday after the crane he was operating accidentally touched an electric wire. He was pronounced dead shortly after arriving at a local hospital.

□ Kadena Town Assembly members delivered a formal protest to Kadena Air Base officials Aug. 26 after a large smoke cloud drifted off base during last week's local readiness exercise. Base officials apologized and said smoke canisters and ground burst simulators will not be used in close proximity to the perimeter fence line in the future.

□ More than 40 percent of Okinawans surveyed said they will vote for Prime Minister Junichiro Koizumi's Liberal Democratic Party during the upcoming Sept. 11 elections. In contrast, only 23 percent said they would vote for the Democratic Party of Japan. The election comes a month after the Upper House rejected Prime Minister Koizumi's controversial postal reform bill Aug. 5. The bill sought to privatize the Japanese postal system, but opposition party members and some LDP members voted against the proposal. In a live broadcast shortly after the vote, Mr. Koizumi voiced his frustration with the results and vowed not to support LDP members that voted against the bill in the upcoming election. The prime minister said he will step down if his ruling party fails to win a majority in the election.

□ A Kadena KC-135 landed without retracting its boom Monday due to a hydraulic malfunction.

□ Iraq formally asked Japanese officials to extend the mission of Japanese troops serving in the country. Currently, Japan plans to withdraw troops from Iraq in December.

□ Uruma City police arrested a 16-year-old girl for trespassing into Camp Courtney Sunday. The suspect admitted climbing over the base's perimeter fence along with a friend. Military security forces caught the suspect while she was allegedly vandalizing a car.

campaign and raised more than $470,000 for quality-of-life programs.

- Despite deploying 76 percent of its military staff in two Air Expeditionary Force deployments, the unit maintained service at four dining facilities, two fitness centers and 600 lodging rooms on Kadena.

- Offered various free programs including five Internet cafes, a youth shuttle system and free taxis to jumpstart a first class, driving under the influence, prevention program.

Information, Tickets and Travel

Some of the highlights of the 18th SVS's Information, Tickets and Travel program include:

- Served more than 70,000 customers offering more than 265 cultural tours and 52 international tours.
- Coordinated more than 30,000 cabana, log cabin and conference reservations at Okuma resort.

Child Care program

Some of the highlights of 18th SVS's child care program include:

- Provided day care services for nearly 900 children ages 6 weeks to 6 years old allowing servicemembers to stay focused on the mission.
- Trained caregivers and worked with special needs children's families to provide a specialized education plan.
- Decreased the CDC and School Age Program waiting list by nearly 50 percent by reopening all classrooms at the CDC and converting unused preschool rooms into school-age rooms.

Youth programs

Some of the highlights of 18th SVS's youth programs include:

- Started flashlight egg hunt to entertain more than 450 children during the Easter holiday.
- Conducted more than 150 classes per month for more than 1,600 students.
- National Alliance for Youth Sports rated the unit's youth sports and fitness programs the best out of 9,000 installations in the Defense Department.

Okuma Resort

Some of the highlights of Detachment 1 - 18th SVS's Okuma Joint Services Recreation Facility achievements include:

- Entertained more than 100,000 guests throughout the year with live entertainment, fireworks, karaoke and other recreational activities.
- Hosted more than 10,000 rounds of golf and opened a 24-hour lighted putting green.
- A Thanksgiving beach buffet fed more than 800 guests.

Capt. Keithen Washington

Some of the achievements of Captain Washington, 18th SVS, include:

- Provided the services staff with training and equipment needed to manage more than 280 locations, 46 million meals and $327 million in annual sales.
- Built first protocol training course after services merger with protocol office.
- Worked with civil engineers to secure $1.5 million funding for Risner fitness center renovations including new family fitness room.

Deployment briefings

Air Force/Staff Sgt. Chyrece Campbell

Capt. Amber Brugnolli, 18th Wing legal office, briefs Airmen leaving in a future Air Expeditionary Force deployment Aug. 25 at the Rocker NCO Club. The briefings were designed to provide deploying Airmen a better grasp of the programs available to them before, during and after deployment.

Chief Master Sgt. Gene Rausch

Some of the achievements of Chief Rausch, 18th CES fire department, include:

- Took care of spouses of deployed Airmen by setting up picnics, mowing lawns, preparing homes for typhoons and delivering birthday presents on a fire truck to boost morale.
- As the fire safety marshal, he inspected more than 3,500 rooms in 10 days, and fixed more than 150 dormitory and lodging fire safety findings.
- Deployed to Baghdad, Iraq, and set up a strategic plan to organize, train and equip 11,500 firefighters and 250 EOD technicians.

Senior Master Sgt. Johnnie Smith Jr.

Some of the achievements of Sergeant Smith, 18th SVS, include:

- He designed a $120,000 upgrade for Marshall Dining Facility that included sports bar theme and cyber cafe. The project also saved the Air Force $60,000 through self-help.
- As the first sergeant bazaar organizer, he helped raise more than $33,000 to support community and enlisted programs.
- He helped bed down more than 1,000 people deployed to Kadena during Yokota's runway closure. More than 1,700 sorties were successfully flown as a result of deployed staff.

Tech. Sgt. James Evans Jr.

Some of the achievements of Sergeant Evans, Det. 1 - 18th SVS Okuma, include:

- Led a cleanup team after Typhoon Songda swept over Okinawa and helped clear more than 25 tons of debris and 100 tons of sand in less than three days.
- As Okuma's fire chief, he secured Pacific Air Forces' funding for a $250,000 fire truck three years ahead of schedule.
- Trained more than 250 people on fire reporting and extinguisher use.

Staff Sgt. Jonathan Bamburg

Some of the achievements of Sergeant Bamburg, 18th CES/EOD, include:

- While deployed to Kirkuk Air Base, Iraq, he responded to more than 100 EOD incidents.
- Disarmed improvised explosive device on main supply route of Kirkuk AB and discovered a second device before it could cause casualties.
- Took experience he gained while deployed and applied it as an exercise evaluation team member by developing a unexploded ordnance tracking system.

Staff Sgt. Jeremy Johnson

Some of the achievements of Sergeant Johnson, 18th SVS, include:

- Managed a medical readiness matrix to ensure 95 percent of staff were ready to deploy.
- Ensured more than $80,000 worth of individual protective equipment was available to 100 percent of the unit.
- While deployed to Ali Air Base, Iraq, he provided food service to more than 1,600 coalition troops.

Airman 1st Class Sara Higgins

Some of the achievements of Airman Higgins, 18th SVS, include:

- She filled in for a seven-level shift leader to lead 15 workers that prepared more than 250,000 meals for 1,700 meal-card holders.
- While deployed to Ali AB, Iraq, she helped set up the first learning resource center with more than 5,000 books, CDs and audio tapes.
- She also provided more than 4,500 carryout meals for security forces and third-country national escorts at Ali AB.

David Sibole

Some of the achievements of Mr. Sibole, 718th Civil Engineer Squadron, include:

- As chief maintainer for 8,180 military family housing units island-wide, he managed a $19 million budget and base facilities worth $5 billion.

- Detected infrastructure leaks and negotiated 125 repair jobs to help Kadena save 75,000 gallons of water daily.

- Responsible for maintenances' fleet of 237 vehicles valued at $1.5 million.

Randall Kimura

Some of the achievements of Mr. Kimura, 18th CES, include:

- As a heating, ventilation and air conditioning repairer, he orchestrated a 60-ton chiller replacement job at radar approach control.
- He managed a $250,000 air conditioning replacement job at military clothing sales and prevented $200,000 of humidity damage to stocked items.
- To help his fellow coworkers, Mr. Kimura translated Japanese diagrams at the 18th Communications Squadron's switchboard to allow emergency repair.

Misty Hironaka

Some of the achievements of Ms. Hironaka include:

- She single-handedly procured $5.6 million in furniture and fixtures for Kadena's new visitor's quarters.
- As the lodging manager, she led the design and construction of the $42 million visitor's quarters.
- Masterminded the installation of $142,000 voicemail upgrade for lodging customers.

Kunimichi Nagashima

Some of the achievements of Mr. Nagashima, 718th CES, include:

- As the housing senior foreman, he answered more than 5,500 service calls in two days and 345 emergency calls in one day.
- Mr. Nagashima managed four boiler plants and nine chiller plants for 738 housing units.
- He spearheaded 620 changes of occupancy maintenance jobs in a one-day turnaround cycle and broke PACAF's performance record with an average of six days' turnaround.

FIGHT: Airmen wow base officials

lines of the base, flight line, office spaces and the skies of Okinawa.

"The base did really, really well," said Maj. Brad Hedbloom, chief of 18th Wing exercises. "Especially when you consider this was a first look at the 'fight-the-base' scenario," he said.

Unlike previous base exercises — where a small, flightline based training zone known as Base X was used — the "fight-the-base" training scenario sliced Kadena's mammoth acreage into eight separate sectors that faced a myriad of "war-like" conditions. Within these zones, all on-duty wing Airmen were required to respond to attacks wearing a variety of war fighting gear, to include suits designed to thwart the effects of biological and chemical attacks.

As aircrews flew defensive counter-air operations, the rest of the wing — including ground crews and office workers — focused their efforts on surviving simulated attacks from chemical-laced SCUD missiles in the blistering summer heat of sub-tropical Okinawa.

"Maintenance crews in particular really came through on this exercise," Major Hedbloom said. "Maintenance exceeded the standard, put the extra hours in and made sure that operations had the jets they needed for combat air power," he said. "They really worked hard to deliver good jets to Ops."

But flight line workers weren't the only people working up a sweat in this exercise, according to Major Hedbloom. Recovery and post-attack operations in nontraditional places like the traffic management office, finance and the military personnel flight were also areas testing their combat mettle.

"I was thoroughly impressed with how well they did," he said. The major said exercise efforts in these normally "no-play" areas were equally impressive. "Especially when you consider they were doing things like generating sweep teams after attacks and setting up stands to detect chemicals, basically things they aren't normally accustomed to doing during an exercise," he said.

The only experienced "players" support personnel had in these now-play areas, according to Major Hedbloom, were co-workers with deployment experience in Iraq and Afghanistan.

"Group participation and enthusiasm in these areas was also evident," he said. "Many people were upbeat while admitting at the same time that this type of work was all new to them."

Although the exercise efforts by wing Airmen have been completed, Major Hedbloom acknowledged that the official "report card" for Kadena's "fight-the-base" exercise has yet to be delivered.

A hot wash — or formal briefing — identifying the specifics of last week's scenario is tentatively scheduled for Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Keystone Theater for top officials, unit commanders and various other leaders.
